

Private Individual Meditation & Yoga

One-to-one attention in a private setting

PROGRAM Private meditation and yoga sessions are completely customizable based on your unique needs and what you'd like to explore and discover in your own life. For true growth to happen, one has to sustain awareness of a challenge in order to make positive change. Awareness training and yoga is about uncovering who you already are, cultivating what's going well with you, rather than focusing on the negative. Through careful and gentle attending to your own experience, as it is, your world can transform, beginning from the inside out. There's understanding mindfulness intellectually and conceptually, then there's knowing it directly from your own experience and inquiry. Through experiential learning, mindfulness allows us to be innately happier, healthier, live with more focus, patience and compassion for yourself and others. How long have you been ignoring your well-being? You deserve to make self-care a priority. This is a complement to therapy and is not designed to diagnose, treat, cure, or prevent any disorder, condition, ailment, illness, sickness, or disease.
